

FRÅ JORD ER DU KOMEN,
TIL JORD SKAL
DU BLI

How to grieve?

1 2 birchus mortuary → 6 room for private space for the closest

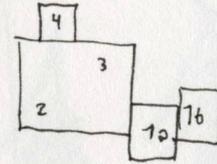

2 Seremoni / Ceremony

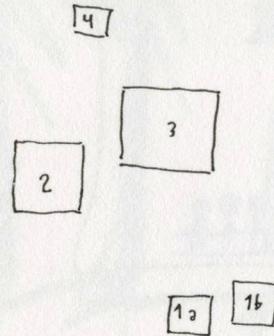

3 Inn / Oven

4 Vente / Wait, and let go together?

or can some of the functions be detached?

A linear action?

A sort of protection

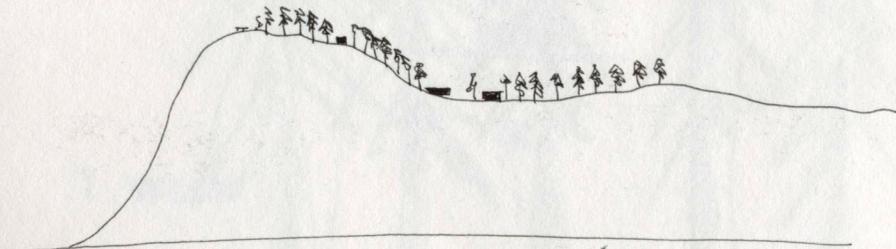

Nature is protection.
Why?

Crematorium to be at a "remote" place.

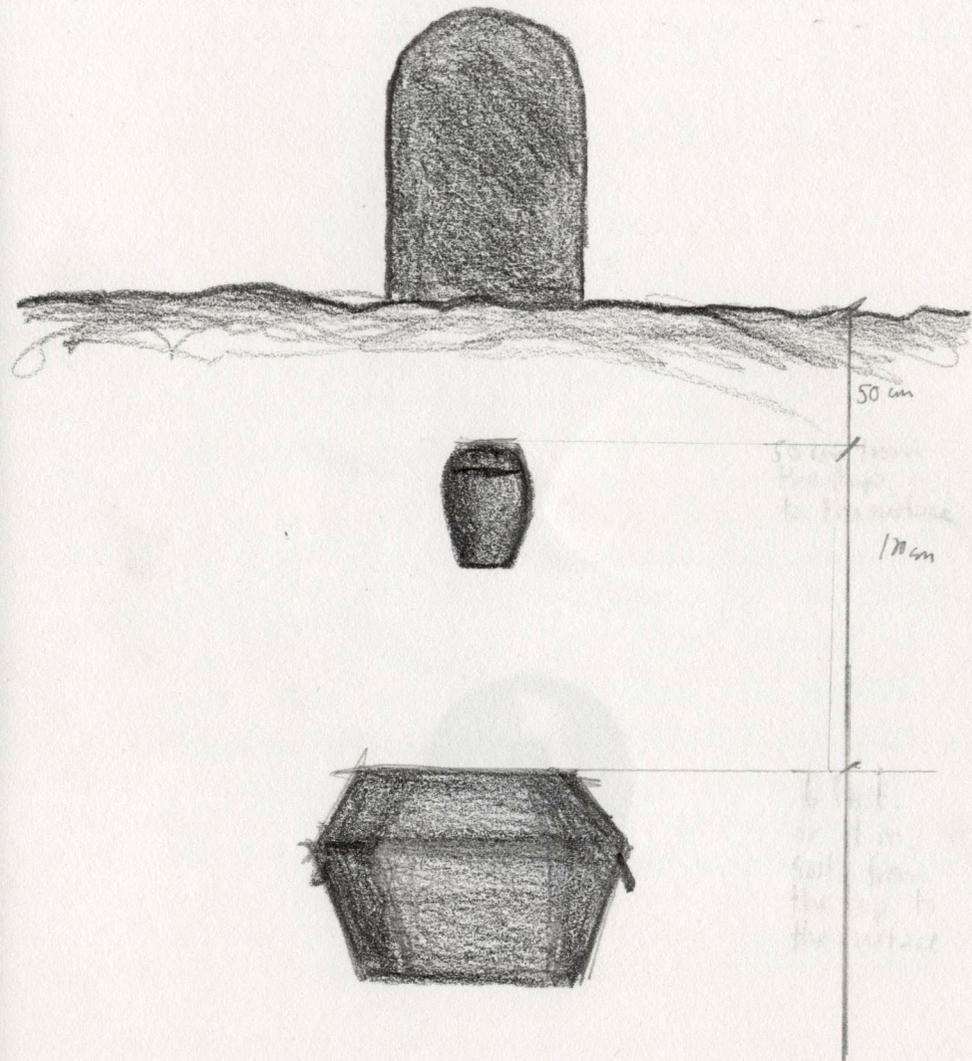

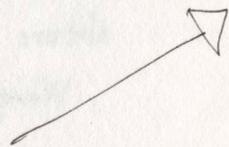

In the wild forest.

If there is any building or any part of a human life that has worth to be placed in a beautiful landscape, it should be this. a ceremonial space and crematorium.

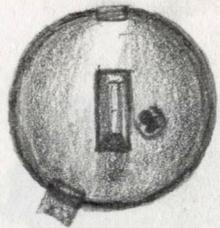

To be placed in the forest, a way of translating "fri jord er du komu til jord skal du bli"
At least when talking about spreading ashes.

One have to wait 20 years from burying a "kisti" before one can bury the next. So, for if burying the ash you don't need to reserve) make reservations.
The ash will be placed much further to the surface!

Faint, illegible text at the top of the page, possibly bleed-through from the reverse side.

Biermann's/the mortuary is perhaps the most introvert action. Should that be the space that is mostly about the one-to-one relation?
Circular, the most perfect form, could that act on the action? Or any other shape?
How can the ceremonial space connect to it?
Should it be connected? And then the Crematorium, the one, to that?

The starting point Mortuary in Lister

Hosburn Kramatorium, John Engh. 1962

One oven/chamber in basement
 Two chapels
 Attached cemetery

Basement

ergonomical correct = steps the coffin is placed on the ground, after the practice in the 60's

Vestfold Krematorium, Puschak AS, 2010

Two ovens/chambers
One ceremonial space
Not attached cemetery
Everything on one floor

the coffin is lifted up before going into the oven only possibility for flat floor without stairs?

What rooms can I offer?
 Spaces for different times of mourning?

- Spaces for mourning

The vulnerable

On the opposite, the machinery, which is also someone's working space.

How does this vulnerable act with the machinery?
 Where do they meet, what is that meeting?

When are they separate, and when is it necessary to separate those two?
 For the workers? For the bereaved?

This in-between is interesting!
 One building body? Two? Many? Where goes this line, this separation?

How DO WE GRIEVE? or how do we want to grieve?

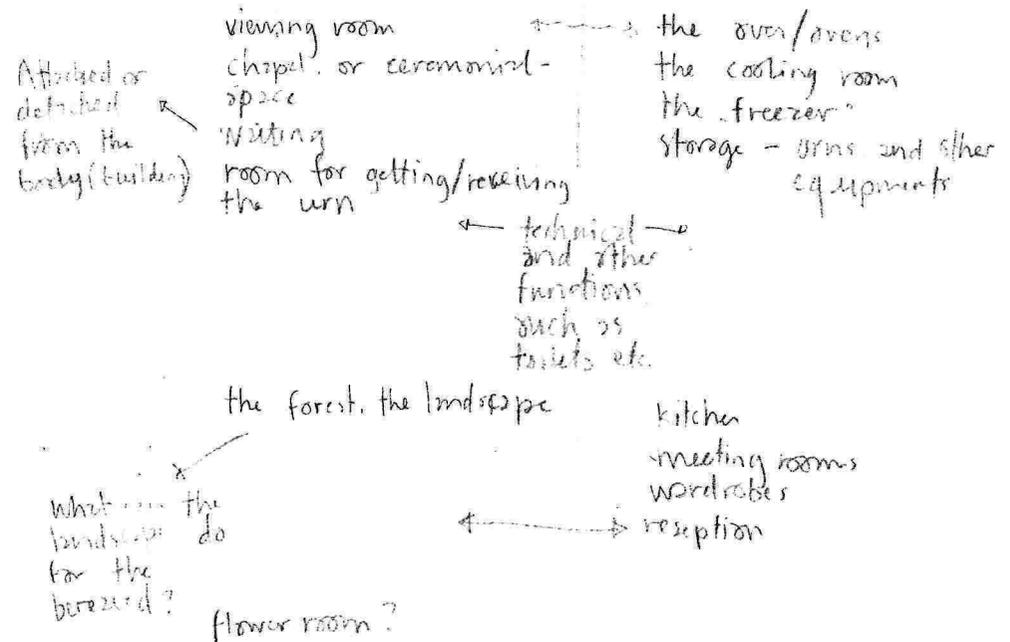

I need:

The Mourning, the vulnerable

- where the bereaved relates to

The Machinery

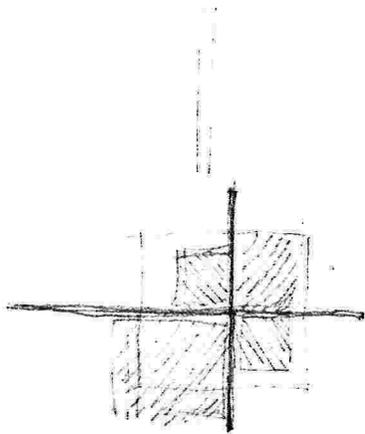

- the working space

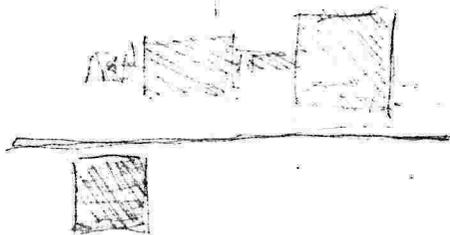

possibility to see the urn?
 Another viewing room.

parking for family and bereaved parking - for workers and for the understaters!

one building but still detached in a way. Not connected, but still some building body

two roads?
two ways to come?
Three - just one for workers & in double what a "special" or what character about the "room" in center is important for me to highlight?

There is only one window, to North-East. Not a window that is screaming "This is your only view, look out!" but it is just there. A pleasant and not light source. Not "patent".

There is one door, one opening, and that is the door you enter, which gives a feeling of being a bit a small home for the deceased in those days where he/she lives. Here the sun is entering only in the morning.

The viewing room: small, coffin in centre, perhaps plca for only 4-5 visitors?
Could be 8. But if it's only one one should not feel alone in a big space.
An intimate room, with only one opening/entering, and one light source, natural, from East, to highlight a new day.
No clocks, only window.
A bench or just a few chairs?
The coffin is placed on a big rock that is carried out from the other side of the fjord, a white granite block. Candles

The ceremonial space: Should not be too big. Benches.
Never empty, but place for many or few. Alter? what could replace the Alter?

How to grieve/mourn?

And how can we build to make space for this?

The relations

The nature

"Søkte skogens ro"

Sorggrupper - groups that are talking about sorrow and their loss.

- The nature itself, hiking (the method I used)
- Planting/growing flowers or vegetables, documented to at least have a positive effect on depression.
Possible to prevent the sorrow/depression?
Is it better to grieve properly that week before burial, will that prevent depression? I wonder.
- To be with the deceased, with your loved one, closeness in the time before funeral
- Be together with family
- Be totally alone
- Have so many tasks that one don't think about it detached to the situation but it seems to happen to a lot of people.
- To see your loved one, the deceased

Dei fem sorgstadiene.

Benektelse
Sinne
Forhælling
Depresjon
Aksept

The five stages of Grief/Loss

Denial and isolation
Anger
Bargaining Depression
Acceptance

Kubler-Ross method from 1969

Denial will just postpone the process of mourning and not erase it, as one might believe.

Loneliness

Openness

My nephew <sup>draw</sup> drew a drawing of my father and put it in his coffin, saying "see you in heaven"

Sorgestegen

The relation between the deceased and the bereaved. Formal (relatives) & informal (friend.)

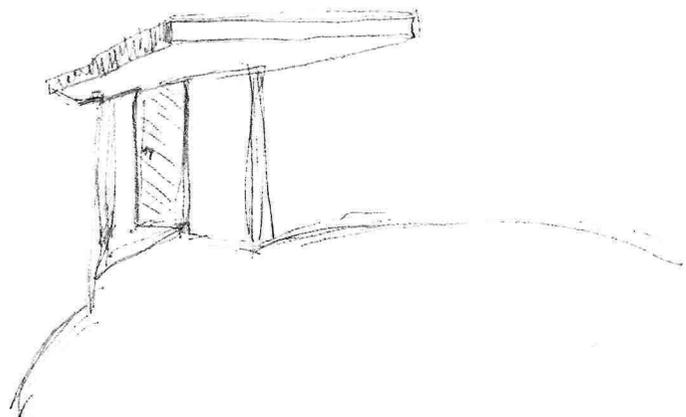

"I den første umiddelbare fase etter dødsfallet er vi i en traumatisk situasjon - i sjokkfasen. I de første timene og dagene er vi preget av fortrengning, spente, hjelpeløst og ventende."

trøst.no

"Reaksjonsfasen kan vare i flere måneder og preges av bolger med sterke følelser. Store humorsvinginger og manglende konsentrasjon er vanlig her."

Uyorienteringsfasen

Landsfororing for pårørende innen
Psykiatri helse: hpp.no

Kn er verdighet?

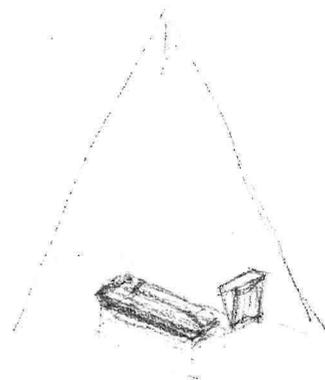

Om Norrköping Krematorium.

"Rim, lugn och ljus seser sig denna byggnad, som nu skol vigas till döden, helgedom och till den renande Herrens sista barmhärtighetsverk"

Biskop Förz André

Rum för avskjed Room for farewell departure

Avslutning
Closure

Room for the deceased cold

Room for the bereaved warm the heat

Waiting, thinking

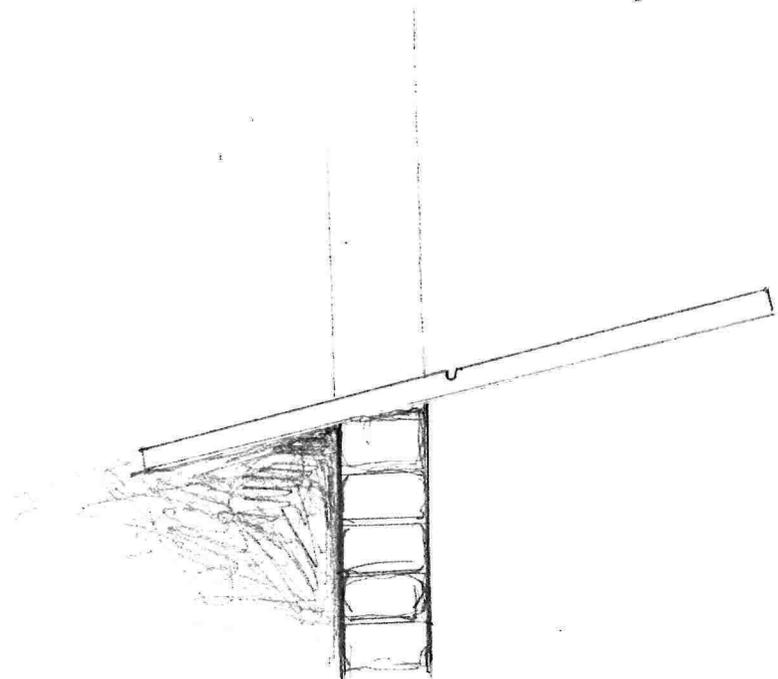

25 Le Thovmet

A place for grief
A bench for reflection

Not climatized in winter? open window, no glass? And put it in in the summer?
Is it possible one animals etc?

possible section through opening

